

Signs to watch

- A loss of health and mobility and increasing isolation because of these losses.
- The inability to perform chores around the house and the loss of pride that comes from not being able to keep up.
- The necessity to rely on family for support and the helpless feeling that comes from having to rely on those that once relied upon you.
- Stress on you and your loved ones as they attempt to assist you.
- Heartbreaking family experiences which are fraught with anger, guilt and stress.
- Hard decisions that involve changing how and where you live.
- An eventual loss of independence and the inability to do the things which please you.
- A loss of friends and possessions which have been so important to you.
- Surroundings which are emotionally uncomfortable and lonely.
- An existence which seems increasingly without purpose.

Live-in care is one of Live Right's specialties and can be arranged for clients in need of added attention.

Whether you're a senior or a family member with a loved one who isn't ready to leave home but could use extra support, Live Right is right there. We provide help with simple activities that have become overwhelming, enabling everyone in the family to save their energy for the important things in life.

You or your loved one

We work with clients dealing with:

- Alzheimer's disease
- Dementia
- Parkinson's disease
- Hip replacement surgery
- Stroke & heart attack recovery
- Diabetes
- And more!

We start the interview process by conducting an in-depth assessment of you or your loved one's lifestyle, medical conditions, and the kind of assistance that will help them to remain independent at home. Together, we will determine the scope of care.
